

EVENING BULLETIN.

SATURDAY EVENING, MARCH 27, 1886.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF EMIGRATION TO TURKEY.
The Sultan of Turkey, desiring to raise the condition of his people to that of the nations of Christendom, and develop the resources of the Empire, has thrown open to the settlement of foreign families, a territory of something over 30,000 square miles, including districts of remarkable and well known fertility, and skirted by a seacoast nearly 3,500 miles in extent, washed by no less than six seas, with numerous and well known harbors in the Mediterranean, Adriatic, Archipelago, Black and Red Seas, and the Persian Gulf.

The terms on which this immigration is invited are extremely liberal. Land is to be given gratis to any family or individual colonist who comes provided with the moderate sum of $200. Facilities will be provided for the transport of his goods and chatties to the country of his adoption; and the only condition attached to the grant of land is, that the colonist cannot sell it for twenty years after he takes possession. If, before the expiration of that period, he desires to give up his land, he must resign it into the hands of the government from which he received it. Colonists under this system are further exempt from personal or property tax for six years if they settle in the Turkish dominions in Europe, or for twelve years if they settle in Asia, and the free exercise of their religion is, in all places, and under all circumstances, secured to them.

Such are the conditions under which the Turkish Empire is freely opened to the settlement of foreign families.

Turkey in Europe is the finest part of the continent for the establishment of a prosperous commerce and successful agriculture. The natural wealth of the Turkish Territory in both continents is known to be very great, but hitherto there has been neither energy nor wealth in the possessors to develop it. The present movement may be the means of infusing some vitality into the nation, if the government is able to accord that protection to colonists which it promises, and prevent any aggression upon them by the lower classes of the Mahometan population.

In the Massachusetts Legislature on Tuesday afternoon, in the course of the debate on the resolve appropriating $3,500 for Wm. H. Ela, who was injured in the Burns riot, among other letters having a bearing on the subject, one from Hon Rufus Choate was sent up to the chair to read. Mr. Esty, temporary chairman, declined attempting to decipher the manuscript. Mr. Bailey moved its reference to the Committee on Education, and Mr. Walker moved it be reported in a new draft. It was finally referred to Senator Frost, of Suffolk, who read it with some hesitation, amid suppressed laughter.

LAND SALES IN KANSAS.—The President has issued his proclamation, for sales of public lands at the land offices at Kickapoo and Leocompton, Kansas Territory, in July next. The first sale at Kickapoo on the 6th July embraces 798,095 acres, and that on the 19th, 701,082 acres. The sale at Leocompton on the 6th July will embrace 756,446 acres, and that on the 19th 656,511 acres; making an aggregate of 2,912,134 acres. These will be the first public sales of Government lands in the Territory.

ARITHMETICAL PROGRESSION.—While engaged in the tobacco and cigar business, I used to have for a customer in cheap cigars, one of those knowing fellows whose knowledge serves better to bore his victims than advance science. You could not make him believe that—no, no! I tell him there were regular cigars that cost forty dollars per thousand; it might do to stuff down the throat of one of them that knew no better; he was none of them. And so it was with everything, he always knew best. It always appeared to be his delight to draw me into some controversy, no matter what the subject was, to hear himself drawn forth. I tried every way I could think of to circumvent him, and at length I succeeded in laying him out as flat as a flounder. It was Saturday afternoon, he came in, made his usual purchase, and seated himself to deal out his usual portion; but I was awake for him.

"Captain," said I, "I have made up my mind to go to California, and if you wish to go into speculation, now is your time."

"As how," said he.

"Why, you see these eighteen boxes of cigars, well, there are two hundred and fifty in each box, and I will let you have the whole eighteen at a low rate, providing you take them all."

"Very well," said my friend, "let us hear the conditions."

"You give me one cent for the first box, two cents for the second, four cents for the third, and so on, doubling on every box."

"Done," said I, "fetch on your cigars. Suppose you think I have not got money enough—ah?"

"Not at all, so let us proceed. Here's your first box."

I drew from his pocket a leather purse and out of it a handful of coin.

"And here's your cent," said he, depositing a green, discolored copper on the counter.

"Here is your second box."

"Here is your two cents."

"Very well, here is your third box."

"And here is your four cents," said he, chuckling.

"Here is your fourth box."

"Exactly. And here is your eight cents! ha! ha! ha! old fellow, go on."

"Here is your fifth box," said I, handing down another.

"And here is your sixteen cents."

"Here is your sixth box."

"And—ha! ha! ha! here is your thirty-two cents."

"Here is your seventh box."

"And here—ha! ha! the joke is getting too rich—here is your sixty-four cents, and half your cigars are gone."

"Here is your eighth box," said I, assuming a cold indifference that perfectly surprised the fellow.

"And here is your dollar and twenty-eight cents."

"Here is your ninth box."

"Here is your—let me see—ah! two dollars and fifty-six cents."

"Here is your tenth box."

I drew his wallet thoughtfully, and on the slate made a small calculation.

"And here is your five dollars and twelve cents."

"Here is your eleventh box."

"And here is your—twice five is ten, twice twelve is twenty-four—ten dollars and twenty-four cents."

At this stage of the game he had got quite docile, and I continued—

"Here is your twelfth box; hand over twenty dollars and forty-eight cents."

Here the globes of perspiration, large as marrow-fat peas, stood out in bold relief on his face, but at length he doled out the sum.

"Here is your thirteenth box; pile out forty dollars and ninety-six cents."

Here the light appeared to break into his thick skull, and he fairly yelled out—"I'll see you darned first, and then I won't!"

With that he left, and I have never been able to get near him since.

SHARP TRADING BY THE GOVERNMENT.—The Independence (Mo.) Messenger informs us of a singular mode of dealing practiced by the Government in its contracts for supplies deliverable at Fort Leavenworth. Every person who sells to the Government is required to pay ten per cent. in cash on the sale. That is, if a farmer sells to the quartermaster $1,000 worth of mules or beef, he (the farmer, not the quartermaster) is required to pay $100 in cash, when he receives from the officer a due bill for $1,100.

ITEMS.

The Texas Mormons.—A statement was not long since made in the San Antonio Herald, to the effect that the Mormons of Texas were going to join Brigham Young at Salt Lake. Rev. Lyman Wright, who is the leader of that sect in Texas, contradicts this statement, saying that "we despise the life and conduct of Brigham as we do the gate of hell, and consider it a perfect slander upon our character to have our names associated with his on paper."

Col. Hoe, of New York, is now in Europe putting up two of his monster presses for the London Times, two for Lloyd's Newspaper, and one each for four other English papers.

Bill Posting.—The bill posters of Buffalo are running opposition to each other in business. Colonel Lum Smith advertises to post bills all over the Union, and in California and Havana, and endorses his merits by referring to Hon. Millard Fillmore, Jas. Buchanan, Martin Van Buren, Wm. H. Seward, and other distinguished gentlemen, whose opinions on bill-posting, as a matter of course, are considered as orthodox. Prof. Read puts forth a counter advertisement, in which he states, that although he has no special agencies in California, Havana, and other small places, he is fully prepared to post bills on the shortest notice in China, the Sardinian Islands, Jerusalem, Brazil, at the sources of the Nile, on every peak of the Alps, and all over the North Pole. He gives, among his references, the Emperor of Russia, Queen Victoria, Ching-Ching, King of China, and the editor of the Rochester Union. We guess there is some kind of a drive in the last reference.—Detroit Advertiser.

Mr. Skinfint's Goodness.—When Mr. Skinfint, of Beaverville, died, there was quite a sensation in town about it. The tell was told, that the only flag in town—that which belonged to the tavern—was hung union down for 24 hours. His praise was in every one's mouth, though why they praised him none could say, except that he was worth plenty of money. This was before Mrs. Partridge moved from Beaverville. "We have lost a great man, ma'am," said the minister, calling upon her; "so portly, so public-spirited, so—so rich." "Ah, yes," responded the estimable dame, with a tear of regret in her eye, "his goodness was past finding out—it was," said she, raising her hand, as if beckoning down a large word, by which to express herself loudly; "it was infinitesimal, and his right hand never knew what his left hand did, nor any body else, for that matter. He was such an excellent man." The minister coughed at the infinitesimal goodness, but he saw how kindly it was intended, and said nothing.—Boston Gazette.

Taking the Claws from a Tiger's Feet.—For some time past it had been observed that a splendid tiger in the menagerie of John Robinson, whose animals have been wintered here, was suffering from pain in the fore-feet, and it was finally concluded that the claws were growing upward into the flesh. On Wednesday preparations were made for removing the claws. Ropes were passed through the cage and around the body of the animal, and by means of which he was hoisted from his feet and suspended from the top of the cage. Another rope was then slipped around each fore-paw, which was pulled out of the cage between the iron bars. By means of instruments, the claws upon both fore-feet were then removed, and it was found that two or three of them had grown up into the flesh nearly half an inch, and others a less distance. As might have been expected, his tigreship expressed his opinion of the surgical operation in the loudest manner.

Cincinnati Gazette.

Rats.—When a house is infested by rats which refuse to nibble at toasted cheese and the usual baits, a few drops of the highly scented oil of rhodium, poured on the bottom of a cage trap, will almost invariably attract it full of the "mischievous rodents" before morning. We have known this to be tried with most extraordinary success. Where a trap baited with all manner of edibles had failed to attract a single rat, the oil of rhodium caused it to be completely crowded night after night, until the house was cleared of the noxious visitors.

Bets on Leocompton.—Those who are in that line were betting yesterday on the fate of Leocompton in the House. The Democrats took everything that was offered with the same alacrity as in the late majority contest in this city.—N. Y. Courier.

WANDERINGS OF AN INSANE WOMAN.—About eight years ago, Martha French, of Pembroke, N. H., became insane, and has continued so up to the present time. She received medical treatment at home, but, receiving no benefit therefrom, she was removed to the asylum at Concord. After remaining there for some time without any apparent improvement, she was taken to her mother's house at Pembroke and confined in her room. In April, 1856, she escaped, and her bonnet was found upon the bank of the river, and this was the only trace they could find of her. It was supposed that she had drowned herself. In order to satisfy themselves more fully upon this they called in the aid of mesmerism. The medium required some article belonging to the supposed deceased, and was furnished with a pair of stockings. On receiving them, the mesmerizer began to tremble, and exclaimed, "Oh, how cold it is down here. Here she is on the bottom." This settled the question in the minds of many whose credulity was greater than their common sense, and nothing more was heard of her.

Last spring, the New England Farmer copied a notice from a Virginia paper that a maniac woman had been taken up and committed to jail in Hanover county, in that State. It also stated that she belonged to Massachusetts, had worked in the Lowell Mills, and had been in the Insane Asylum at Concord twice. Her name was not given.

Some one acquainted with Miss French sent the paper to her mother and sister at Pembroke. The sister wrote to the jailer who answered that he could not learn her name, and that she had been transferred to the hospital at Williamsburg. The sister then wrote to the attending physician there, and he answered that there was no person by that name there, but that he had a stranger who gave a different name, and he knew not where she belonged. The sister then wrote for him to ask her if she ever had a cat, and if so, what was its name. This was done, and she answered (as the physician understood) that its name was "Little." He communicated this to the sister. She used to call her cat Lydia, and the sister thought he might have misunderstood her. This, together with the description given of her by the superintendent, led her friends to believe that the person there confined was Miss French.

Dr. Simpson, of Lowell, had been well acquainted with her, and the friends engaged him to visit the hospital, and provided the means to bring her home, should he find her. Week before last he visited the hospital and made known his errand to the superintendent. They went in, and the superintendent sent her to her room. On entering, she exclaimed, "Why, why!" He asked if she knew that man, and she replied, "Why, yes; he used to doctor me; it is Dr. Simpson." The doctor recognized her at first sight. She would answer all questions rationally. On being asked how she came there, she replied, "On a boat. This was true. To another question she replied that she traveled on foot a part of the way, and rode in the car some of her journey from home. She said they gave her a bonnet, shoes and other clothes on the road. As soon as she had answered a question her mind seemed to wander most strangely.

The doctor offered to take her away, but, on being told that nothing would be charged for her board there until the room was wanted by patients belonging to the State, he thought best to let her remain.

THE WIFE MURDER.—Confession of the Murderer. The St. Louis News, of Friday evening, has the following. We published an account of the affair a few days ago:

Last night, about 10 o'clock, George H. Lamb, whose arrest on suspicion of having murdered his wife has been chronicled in the daily papers, made a clean breast of the affair by confessing the murder in full in presence of Mr. Stafford, his father-in-law, and officers Lee and Boggus. The details show a cool premeditation and relentless surpassing in the annals of crime. His confession, however, will amount to nothing, unless the murder can be proved by other testimony to have actually occurred, as, according to the rules of law, the corpus delicti, or "body of the offense," must be established before the confession of the accused can be admitted as evidence.

It is reported that about the time this murder is said to have taken place, the body of a woman answering to the description of Mrs. Lamb was found floating in the river, near St. Genevieve, and was taken ashore at that place. Mr. Stafford starts immediately for that point to make inquiries. He immediately to the prisoner's cell yesterday morning to have some conversation with him. Lamb said that his counsel had instructed him not to talk to any one. At 10 o'clock P. M. Stafford again went to him, as stated before, in company with officers, when he unbosomed the whole secret. He said he took his wife from the Astor House and put her in a yawl boat, for which he paid $7, telling his victim he was going to a small town down the river. Himself and two others were in the boat with her. The names he did not know.

He took her down within half a mile of the island (he did not say what one) and there held her head under water until she struggled. He then tied a rope around her neck, attached a stone to it, and sunk her. The rope was about half the size of a common bed-cord. He was asked what motive he had for the perpetration of the deed, if Sarah (his wife) had not always treated him properly and well? He replied that she had never done him wrong, and did not deserve her fate, but that he was influenced by other parties, the names of whom he could not or would not give. He drowned her, he says, on the 17th of December last. After her body had sunk, he, with the two other men, went ashore and sent the yawl adrift. To a question how his wife was dressed, he answered, in the dress she was making at the time he went for her at her father's house.

[From the Massachusetts Teacher.]

MRS. SMITH AND "HER WILLIE."

Mrs. Smith is extensively known among teachers, for, though she is frequently found in one of the back districts of Forestville, she is equally at home in each of the populous wards of Metropolitania. Indeed, that lady is to a school district what a "rooked deacon" is to a parish. You will have an opportunity afforded you of knowing Mrs. Smith nearly as soon as you have made the acquaintance of her Willie.

Of course it is well for the teacher to know the characteristics of his pupils, and, lest you should fail of discovering these in the junior member of the Smith family, if you do not call on the good lady during the first week, she will call on you. Indeed, it would not be remarkable if she made her appearance the first morning, and remained while you opened school, to observe whether you probably gave the qualities which she considers requisite in the person to whom she commits her precious charge. It is not to be expected that you will realize the amount of confidence placed in you by the resignation of Willie Smith into your unpracticed hands, until his mother has apprised you, indeed, she never does fully resign him, but holds him by the button, ready to draw him to her maternal bosom in case you are found to have a way of your own.

Mrs. Smith feels it her duty at the outset to let you know that her Willie is "nervous." He always was a nervous child, having a hereditary disposition that way; moreover, he had a severe teething fever which racked his constitution in infancy, otherwise he would now be an incipient "Hercules." As it is, he will sometimes lay violent hands on his schoolfellows, not from any inherent malignity of disposition, but from the state of his nerves. His brain is also remarkably precocious, developed alarmingly—and you are called to notice the magnitude of his cranium. You will some day be more surprised at its thickness. His head has been phenomenally examined by Professor Feeler, and, if phrenology is true, a Milton, Bacon, or Newton is there held in reserve for the enlightenment of the coming generation. She reminds you that "the twig is bent the tree is inclined," and does not want you to bend her twig at all; she prefers that nature should have its way, though you would like to suggest that nature makes men savages.

She encourages you with the promise that, if she likes your management, she may send George Washington, and, perhaps, Benjamin Franklin to school next term. In the mean time, Willie is not to be crowded in his studies, as his brain will not bear it.

It is possible that, notwithstanding the remarkable precocity of Willie's brain, which at present prompts him to find relaxation in excavating horse-chestnuts under his knive, and in precipitating pulverized chalk into the ink-stands, &c., he will sometimes, not to say often, be found to be remarkably obtuse, his heavy eyes and pallid or burning cheeks suggesting indigestion. If you board a while at Mrs. Smith's, or visit there often, you will be able to account for this by the fact that this same child drinks strong tea and coffee, eats indordinately of all manner of indigestible condiments at table, and regales himself with parched corn, molasses candy, nuts, and raisins in the evenings, and "sits up as long as father and mother do."

If you venture to suggest that the waste of the future generation is implied in this disregard of the embryo philosopher's digestive functions, you are politely reminded that mothers know best what "agrees" with their children.

"It is not to be presumed that Willie is perfect," Mrs. Smith remarks, "any more than other children," though you wonder which of the virtues he is not reputed to possess; but in time you will find out, viz: "he is generous to a fault," and you become mindful to keep your stationery under lock and key, or it will be glibly or "swallowed" away to the other boys. Gradually, as Willie's failings discover themselves to you, Mrs. Smith feels called upon to apologise. She doesn't know "what makes Willie act so, unless it is playing with those Browns and Joneses, who are enough to ruin any child."

About the middle of the term her maternal fears are excited lest Willie is overworking himself at school. She thinks a change will do him good, and accordingly sends him to his grandmother's to spend four or five weeks. Meantime, his class reviews. When examination day comes, the absentee appears, with the rest, to recite. The word "grammar" is proposed to him to spell, and, having orthography of his own in that original head of his, he renders the word g-r-a-m-m-a-r-c-h-y-o-u-a-l-i-g-h-t, and astonishes every one present but yourself with the assertion that "the Nile rises in the Mediterranean sea and flows south into the mountains of the moon."

Mrs. Smith is very active in the neighborhood in speaking your praises, as long as you teach and govern according to her favorite theory; but if you have the temerity to disregard her suggestions, and especially if Willie incurs disciplinary treatment at your hands, you and Mrs. Smith are in harmony no longer, and your influence over the boy is gone forever; you may as well give him over to the tender mercies of the Browns and Joneses. If Mr. Smith is one of the committee, you need not expect to teach the school a second term.

However that may be, when you have taught anywhere one year, you will wish that there was a State institution for the discipline of weak, injudicious mothers; when you have taught a few years, you will ignore all the Smiths, and pursue "the even tenor of your way."

Raising of the Empire State.—A final and successful effort was made on Tuesday evening to raise the Empire State, without having recourse to the removal of her machinery. Six hundred casks were stowed under the deck, fore and aft, one hundred and fifty under the guards, and the camels were attached at low water, and as the tide rose the vessel left the rocky bed she had occupied just a week and floated. The steamer now lies at the Novelty Works. The casks and camels still remain in her to keep her afloat.—N. Y. Courier.

Col. Morgan Sunk.—The steamer Colonel Morgan which left Keokuk on the 20th, laden with lumber, was sunk at Keosauqua. She is reported badly sunk, and in a dangerous position.
Tishomingo Sunk on the Lower Rapids.—The Tishomingo, in passing over the Lower Rapids, struck a rock, and knocked a hole in her side which caused her to sink. The supposition is that she is not badly damaged. She had to lighten over so that the aperture is above the water, and the crew were pumping her out. She was going to Montrose for the purpose of taking her place in the line between that point and Rock Island, and was owned by Messrs. Dodge, Clark, Keach, and others, of the Montrose and Rock Island Packet Company. The Tishomingo was valued at $10,000. She had no freight. The accident occurred on Monday night.

ARREST OF FUGITIVE KIDNAPERS.—James B. Finly, alias Haly A. Howard, and his wife, were brought to this city yesterday morning from Elliott's Mills, Howard county, Maryland, charged with having kidnapped Sarah Taylor, a colored girl, aged 14, in this city, and attempting to sell her to a slave-dealer in Washington. It appears that Finly and wife persuaded the parents of the colored girl to permit her to leave her home and go with them to live in Newark, on the 8th inst., but instead of taking her to Newark they went direct to Washington, where they put up at Willard's Hotel. The next morning Finly, it is alleged, attempted to sell the girl for $600 to a slave-dealer, but she was too knowing, and exposed him. Finly and wife, on this disappointment, immediately left Washington, abandoning their unmanageable charge, and went to Baltimore.

Mr. Willard, on hearing the girl's story, telegraphed to Mayor Liemann, and the circumstances of her leaving the city were soon known. Her mother made an affidavit setting forth the facts, and the girl was detained at the hotel until the police could bring her back. Officers Barry and Lee were detailed from the 14th precinct to investigate the affair, and the day following they arrested Dr. F. C. Clay, of this city, on suspicion of being connected with Finly. This party had boarded at the same house with Finly. He at first denied knowing anything of the kidnapping, but finally gave all the particulars. He was not connected with Finly, but knew him intimately, and accompanied him to the cars when the party left for Washington. Dr. Clay was held to bail in $1,000 as a witness.

The officers went South, and after a tedious search ascertained that Finly was at Elliott's Mills, Howard county, Md. Officer Barry watched for him in disguise, and discovered him go to the post-office and inquire for a letter. Being fully convinced that the person he watched was Finly, the officer then followed him to a hotel, where the accused and his wife were arrested. The necessary requisition was obtained, and the prisoners were brought on without difficulty. The girl was also brought back, and the parties are held for examination, which will probably take place to-day before the Recorder.

XXXVTH CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.
WASHINGTON, March 27.
Saturday's Proceedings.

The Senate was not in session to-day.
House.—The House proceeded to the consideration of the report of the special committee in the Matteson case, which concludes with a resolution that it is inexpedient to take further action in regard to the resolution for his expulsion.

Mr. Seward argued in favor of the views in the report. The House has, by the Constitution, power to punish a member for disorderly conduct, and, by a two-thirds vote, may expel a member, but it never was designed that a charge should be revived at a subsequent Congress, because there is no power to limit or restrict the sovereignty of the people in the choice of their representative.

Mr. Craig of North Carolina asked whether any legislative body has not the right to protect itself against scandalous and against association with a man whose reputation is infamously corrupt.

Mr. Seward replied that there was so much diversity of opinion as to what constituted a gentleman he should like Mr. Craig to fix the legal standard.

Mr. Craig said the House could protect itself when a man's character is pronounced infamous, and about which there was no diversity of opinion.

Mr. Seward remarked he was not here as the prosecutor or defender of Matteson, but was endeavoring to explain the law as he understood it. He asked Mr. Craig to put his finger on the record to show where Matteson was interested one cent in the transaction investigated by the previous Congress.

A CARD.

Some days past there appeared in the Louisville Daily Journal, a notice of the trial of skill with the pistol, contemplated by me, in which I was, in three shots, at the distance of ten paces, to strike three oranges to be placed one on the head, and one on each hand of a boy. No disapproval was manifested by the public, nor did I hear for some time of any objection in the city to the affair. An article at length appeared in some newspaper abroad, denouncing the shooting match. The hue and cry was then raised by one or two other papers in this city, and until this was done, did any paper in this city seem disposed to view the matter unfavorably.

The "Courier" then condemned the affair, assigning a miserably poor excuse for not having done so earlier. Up to this time, His Honor, Mayor Pilcher, had kept silent, and expressed no objections till the "Courier" led off; when for some motive best known to himself, he issued a proclamation, ordering that I should be immediately taken into custody—though it had been published that the shooting would not take place till the 15th of June next.

I cannot conceive why it was that the Mayor, even if he had the power to order my arrest, should have found it necessary to have his order published in the newspapers of the city, holding me up to the public as an outlaw, unless it was to make it appear that he was Sir Oracle.

Though he calls it his proclamation, it is but an order directed to the police; and, as the office of the Chief of Police is as I am informed, in the same building with the office of the Mayor, it seems, if it were His Honor's wish only to have me taken into custody, his written order delivered to the Chief would have served equally as well as the proclamation.

How the Mayor is vested with authority to have a citizen arrested without information given under oath and by affixing the arrest, or why he should seek to exercise such authority when there is a city judge whose special business it is to try offenders, and to order the arrest of persons when a proper case is presented, I have not been able to learn.

The Mayor, as I am informed, was at one time a General; and, as a military man, he must be presumed to be acquainted with firearms; and if, before issuing the proclamation he had asked himself the question whether a pistol might not be so loaded as to shoot ten paces with a small ball without inflicting a serious wound even if the ball should strike any part of the person, I think he could have satisfied himself that there would not be even a possible cause of any injury to the boy, even if I should hit him; and hence that there was no occasion to order my arrest. It appears, however, that the Mayor loves to command without reflecting on the necessity or propriety of his orders. If by ordering the arrest of individuals he wishes to keep the community reminded that he is Mayor, I could suggest how he might repeatedly gratify his desires, by referring him, for subjects, to persons after persons who, time and again, are visiting the city and publicly advertising some grand exhibitions of gymnastics, feats of hand, and other feats, the execution of all of which is attended with far greater hazard to life and limb than the boy holding the oranges would be subject to, even if I were to shoot with an overcharged pistol.

Instances, such as I allude to, might have been witnessed not long since in this city in the circuses, where a pyramid of persons, surmounted with some lad, is placed on the backs of horses going at full speed. Or where the tight rope performers walk a rope stretched from the ground to the top of some lofty building, or where the aeronaut takes his flight through the air with his balloon, companions, or when the Rivel and Martinetti troupe exhibit, in their tight rope performances, their pyramid of men on a rope, and a child at the top many feet in the air, or where the Chinese Juggler throws knife after knife around and about a man stationed against a plank partition with his arms and legs extended—throwing the knives so as to stick them on each side and in close proximity to his neck, legs, arms, and body, and with such force as to drive the blades so deep into the wood as to require much shaking and pulling to take them out.

Why are not these feats, too, prohibited? The public seems disposed to patronize most liberally such exhibitions where the performances seem most hazardous.

To what public benefit do they contribute? Yet the Mayor tolerates such exhibitions, which, for the most part, are given by foreigners; but when I, an American citizen, who, for upward of twenty years, have made the use of the pistol my study, and, during the time, have taught many how to use it, which by the way, is a desirable and valuable accomplishment—when I announce that I will engage in a trial of skill with the pistol, as already stated, it is thought proper by the Mayor not only to deny me privileges, such as are allowed to and exercised by others, but, by proclamation in the city papers, to order my immediate arrest, as though I were an outlaw or seeking to evade the vigilance of the police.

I can't but feel much aggrieved at so unwarranted a course on the part of the Mayor, and therefore am induced to complain to the public for such treatment. I cordially approve of the motto, "Equal rights to all, exclusive privileges to none," and, when I see that others are allowed by the authorities to engage in exhibitions, which, without doubt, are attended with imminent peril to life and limb, I feel that I am not taking a privilege greater than that allowed to and exercised by others, and that I am not violating the law when I seek to exercise the right of engaging in a trial of skill with the pistol as proposed. Knowing that, even if the boy should be hit, he could not be hurt, and knowing, too, that after more than twenty years' use of the pistol as a profession, it would be improbable that I should hit the boy, when shooting with deliberate aim, a distance of only 10 paces, and at an object 2½ inches in diameter.

After having already acquired some reputation as a pistol shot it would be folly for me to risk that reputation by shooting at the oranges, if I had the least doubt of hitting them; and it would be worse than madness in me to peril my life or liberty by the attempt, if I felt it was probable for the boy to be injured if a ball should touch him.

I claim, however, to be a law-abiding citizen, and if, after the foregoing statements, the public think that I would be violating the law, were I to shoot as proposed, I here promise not to offend against the laws of the State.

Respectfully,
JOHN TRAVIS.

OFFICIAL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

THURSDAY EVENING, March 25, 1858.

Present—E. D. Weatherford, President, and all the members except Alderman Burton.

A report was presented from the street inspector of the Eastern District, showing the sum of $186.06 expended for cleaning and repairing streets from the 3d to the 18th of March, 1858, which was referred to the Street Committee of the Eastern District, and by request Alderman Howard afterwards reported a resolution allowing the same, which was adopted.

A claim of $57.55 in favor of J. M. Booker for services as warden of the Hope Fire Co. was presented, and referred to Committee on Fire Department.

A claim of $355 in favor of A. Y. Johnson & Bro. for building horse-carriage for the steam fire-engine was presented and allowed.

A claim of $3.50 in favor of Wm. Crofoot was presented and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Also, $1 in favor of J. F. Hammon was referred to the Hospital Committee.

A report was read from the city engineer, giving an approximate estimate of the cost for an improvement of the Portland wharf from the east line of Commercial street to the east line of Fulton street, with necessary sewers (stated at the sum of $17,050), which was referred to the Committee on Wharf.

A claim of $120 in favor of J. W. Davis for extra work at the intersection of Sixth street and Portland Avenue, was referred to Revision Committee.

On motion of Alderman Weatherford, a resolution was adopted authorizing James Guthrie and Hamilton and Brother to grade, pave, and curb such streets as they deem proper upon which they are sole owners of property, said work to be done in accordance with the general ordinance regulating the construction of such work, the city to be liable for no portion of the cost thereof except for the intersections of all streets and alleys.

A petition was presented from J. P. Young and others, asking a well at the north corner of Marion and Third streets to be re-dug and walled, which was referred to Street Committee of Eastern District.

A communication was read from the Mayor recommending that the Street Inspectors be authorized to employ two practical boulderers at $1.75 per day, which was referred to the Street Committee of Western District.

The Mayor submitted a contract executed by Henry H. Higdon to repair the Portland Avenue, which was referred to the Committee on Western District, and, after examination, Alderman Howard from said committee reported same, and it was approved.

A message was read from the Mayor, making sundry suggestions in reference to the repair of Broadway between Second and Sixth streets, which was referred to Street Committees of the Eastern and Western Districts.

A resolution from the Common Council, proposing a joint session on 8 o'clock this evening for the purpose of electing one member of the Common Council in place of A. B. Sample, resigned, was acceded to. Thereupon the two Boards assembled in joint session, when Thomas Shanks was duly elected to fill said vacancy, when the joint session arose.

Alderman Crawford, from Committee on Fire Department, reported a resolution allowing Olmsted & O'Connor $13 for coal furnished Hope Fire Company, which was adopted.

Alderman Crawford, from Finance Committee, to whom was referred a communication from the Mayor in reference to the maturity of a city note at the Bank of Kentucky for $7,290.68, reported that the Mayor has been delinquent in his duty in not reporting to the Council promptly the time when said note matured, and recommended that the Mayor be instructed to renew said note at four months from its maturity, which was concurred in and adopted. Subsequently the same was returned from the Common Council amended, by inserting "the Mayor having failed, owing to his indisposition, to report the time when said note matured," which amendment was rejected, and the Board voted to adhere to the original report.

Alderman Crawford, from the Committee on Finance, reported in favor of an ordinance from the Common Council in relation to the investment of the funds of the sinking fund, with an amendment to insert after the word "interest," in the twelfth line, the words "thereon to be held by them as investment," which was concurred in.

Alderman Weatherford, by leave, submitted a minority report from the Committee on Sinking Fund as follows:

The minority of the committee to whom was referred the ordinance passed by the Common Council authorizing the commissioners of the sinking fund to purchase one hundred of the bonds of the city of Louisville issued to the Louisville and Nashville Railroad at 75 cents on the dollar out of the surplus in said fund have had the same under consideration; and, after a thorough and careful investigation of the charter and ordinances, feel constrained, however reluctantly, to report against its passage. They beg leave to state, that, entertaining a correct conclusion in the premises, they sought the aid of the legal advisers of the city, whose duty it is to represent her interest and give the coordinate departments of the municipal government advice, and to construe the charter and ordinances, and they feel bound to be governed by their opinion. They submit to their decision in this case the more cheerfully from the fact that their opinions coincide entirely with their own views upon the points submitted.

Assuming the opinion of the Aldermen to be correct, the duty of the Council is a very plain one. It is very obvious there is and can be no surplus in the Sinking Fund for the current fiscal year. The probable income of the Sinking Fund for the year will be, say.....$ 55,000 00

Its positive liabilities are as follows:

1. Bonds to Lytle's heirs, due in January, 1859.....	$27,000 00
2. Interest on same.....	1,620 00
3. Interest on School bonds not retired.....	1,620 00
4. Interest on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad bonds.....	30,000 00
5. Interest on bonds for Strader's wharf.....	10,500 00
6. Deficit of interest on Water bonds.....	10,000 00
7. Salaries of officers (Mayor, Auditor, Treasurer, and Assessors).....	2,700 00
8. Salaries of Market Masters.....	1,950 00
9. Exchange at 1 per cent. on $80,740.....	807 40
10. Market-house on Broadway (largely petitioned for) say at least.....	10,000 00
11. Portland wharf and City wharf.....	10,000 00
12. Repairs to Market-houses and Gas.....	1,000 00
Deficit.....	$ 12,997 40

Thus it will be seen that, so far from there being a surplus after paying the charges upon it, there will actually be a deficit of $12,997 40, exclusive of the court-house and outstanding judgments against the city, which will have to be provided for out of the sinking fund.

That some steps have to be taken to finish the court-house can no longer be discussed. The Circuit Court has issued its mandamus against each of the members of the General Council, requiring them to proceed to finish the court-house with all convenient dispatch, and we must either obey the order or resign our seats.

If any expenditure be made on the court-house at all it cannot fall short of $30,000 during the present year.

The outstanding judgments against the city for which the sinking fund is liable aggregate not less than $15,000. So when these two items are added to the deficit previously shown, it makes the sum of $57,997 40; besides the state of the finances of the city requires her to make frequent demands upon the sinking fund, and it would be unwise to take this source of temporary relief from her.

With this state of case before the committee they are compelled to report against the purchase of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad bonds.

The facts stated are incontrovertible and demonstrate all cavil or question that, so far from there being a surplus in the sinking fund, it will, in all probability, have to be a large borrower itself.

The committee would take great pleasure in doing any and everything in their power to promote the Louisville and Nashville Railroad enterprise, believing as they do that upon its completion depends in a great measure the future growth and prosperity of Louisville. But however desirable that result may be, it is as nothing when compared with the credit, good faith, and integrity of the city, which, for the time being, is committed to the General Council, and must be held sacred and inviolate.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. D. WEATHERFORD.
